Walnut trees are dying off

New disease takes its toll in Davis urban forest

By Steven J. Seybold

August 29, 2009

The Davis Enterprise

Walnut trees are dying off in Davis urban forest. This is a threat to the industry and the changes may affect the economy of Davis. The threat to the industry may affect the economy of Davis. The threat to the industry and the changes may affect the economy of Davis.

THE DAVIS ENTERPRISE SUNDAY, AUGUST 30, 2009

Joe Schairer

Target employee, Davis

"The drama teacher Mr. Daddie always had a sense of humor. He connected with students and was on a level with every single student."

Eschelion Nathan

Target employee, Davis

"The hand teacher Mr. Bennett had a good sense of humor and can be funny sometimes."